September is good for stocks during bull markets, JPMorgan says

NEW YORK, Sept 7 (Bloomberg): September, historically the worst month for European stocks, can also yield gains when markets are within a longer-term bull rally, according to JPMorgan Chase & Co's quantitative strategists.

The MSCI Europe Index has dropped 1.6 per cent in September on average since 1969, losing in 52 per cent of cases, JPMorgan's London-based quant analysts Matthew Burgess and Marco Dion wrote in a report today. When the market has risen in the previous six months, then the European benchmark increased an average 1.1 per cent in September, they added.

Since the MSCI Europe has rallied 40 per cent in the six months to the end of last week, "we consequently see a strong probability (a 2 in 3 chance) of September offering positive returns," wrote the strategists.

Pharmaceutical stocks were the only group among 10 industries that have on average made gains in September, the report showed.

Kraft to pursue spurned $16.7 billion bid for Cadbury

LONDON, Sept 7 (Bloomberg): Kraft Foods Inc, the second-largest food company, said it will pursue a takeover of Cadbury Plc after the British maker of Trident gum and Dairy Milk chocolate rejected a 10.2 billion-pound ($16.7 billion) bid.

Cadbury shares soared as much as 42 per cent, pushing its market value above the bid price. Kraft's 745 pence-a-share proposal may trigger rival offers from Nestle SA and Hershey Co., forcing Kraft to raise its bid, analysts said.

Kraft, the maker of Oreo cookies and Kool-Aid drinks, said today that buying the UK company would create a "global powerhouse" with annual revenue of about $50 billion. Evolution Securities analyst Warren Ackerman estimated that Cadbury may be worth as much as 1,200 pence a share.

Kraft's bid "might seem attractive, but we think Cadbury can get much more," said Andrew Wood, an analyst at Sanford C. Bernstein in New York with an "outperform" rating on Cadbury shares. "It makes perfect sense for Kraft to acquire Cadbury."

Northfield, Illinois-based Kraft plans to offer 300 pence in cash and 0.2589 new Kraft share per Cadbury share, valuing the confectioner at 31 per cent more than last week's close. Cadbury said the bid "fundamentally undervalues" the company.

"It's clearly hostile," Andy Smith, an analyst at Icap Plc in London, said by phone. The deal is a "near perfect geographical fit. It's unlikely Kraft will just walk away." Smith said the US company may need to raise the bid's cash component to get Cadbury to agree to a sale.

Kraft said its announcement aimed to "encourage and further" dialogue with Cadbury after its approach was rebuffed.

Cadbury shares jumped 229.5 pence, or 40 per cent, to 797.5 pence at 12:36 p.m. in London, reversing their decline for the year. More than 30 million shares were traded, more than six times the daily average for the last three months.

"There is a reasonable chance that Nestle/Hershey could counterbid, with Nestle taking gum and Hershey taking chocolate," Evolution's Ackerman said in a note. Nestle declined to comment today.

Kraft's shares fell about 1 per cent to the equivalent of $27.68 in German trading and are little changed this year. US markets are closed for Labor Day.

The US company is "very weak" in the U.K. and strong in markets such as Brazil and Scandinavia, where Cadbury is "not a player," Icap's Smith said. Kraft also lacks expertise in gum, which Smith called the candy market's "most attractive space."

Ackerman, who rates Cadbury "buy," estimated the chances of a counterbid at 30 to 40 per cent. He said it was "inevitable" that Cadbury would be bought after Mars Inc. acquired chewing-gum maker Wm Wrigley Jr. Co. in 2008.

Kraft's biggest shareholder is billionaire investor Warren Buffett, whose Berkshire Hathaway Inc. owns a stake of almost 10 per cent. Buffett has invested in candy mergers before, funding part of Mars' purchase of Wrigley.

With Cadbury, Kraft would match Mars' 15 per cent share of the global candy market, Evolution's Ackerman also said, with Cadbury's strengths in gum in Latin America and Europe complementing Kraft's chocolate business in those regions.

The timing of the approach may not appeal to Cadbury Chief Executive Officer Todd Stitzer, who is halfway through a four- year plan aimed at raising the company's operating margin from 10 per cent in June 2007 to a "mid-teens" per
